We strive to move the foodservice industry forward by connecting people and businesses, finding answers to tough questions, and distilling complex information into practical knowledge. To help our community of industry professionals navigate the challenges and opportunities they face today, we connect our audiences with the information, resources, and experts that are most relevant to them through online education program delivered through Show channels.

The Show will continue to expand upon its long-standing history of offering the best and most comprehensive educational program by:

1. Providing cutting-edge, top quality programming by leading food industry professionals.
2. Offering relevant content on key focus areas that are significant to foodservice professionals, consumers and the industry.
3. Presenting the latest trends and hot topics with applicable takeaways attendees can use in their own work.
4. Maximizing the attendee value through interactive learning formats.

Why Present?

Each year online sessions attract thousands of food industry professionals to share information about the newest innovations, the latest trends, and critical issues in foodservice and restaurant operations.

Online sessions are highly desired by Show audiences, drawing on average more than 300 attendees per session. Attendees are foodservice buyers representing a wide variety of markets from casual dining and quick service, to fine dining, bars and breweries, non-commercial foodservice and lodging, as well as foodservice suppliers and other industry representatives.

If selected as a speaker, you will gain visibility in the industry and contribute to the advancement of your profession. Your experience and perspective may help your peers answer their biggest questions, build their business, and strengthen the industry.

Frequently Asked Questions

Below are some of the most frequently asked questions during the session proposal submission process, with references to additional information in this set of guidelines.

1. When is the deadline to submit online session proposals?

There is no deadline to submit session proposals for year-round online education. Proposals will be accepted on an ongoing, rolling basis.

2. Can I make changes after the session proposal after I submit?

Submitters will not be allowed to make any changes after they submit their proposals. If the proposal is accepted, you will then be allowed to make very minor edits and/or changes suggested by the Show Programming Team.

3. When will I hear if my session proposal was accepted for presentation?

Submitters will be notified by email within 3 weeks after their submission.

4. Does submitting a session proposal guarantee acceptance?

It does not. Session proposals are reviewed based on the quality factors outlined in these guidelines. Any sessions submitted not meeting the quality factors will not be selected.

In some cases, session proposals that satisfactorily meet these requirements will also not be selected due to limited program space and the higher quality of competing session proposal submissions.

For detailed information review the session quality criteria in these guidelines.

5. If submitting a session proposal does not guarantee acceptance, how do I handle asking other potential speakers I want to have present (if I'm not the speaker)?

When organizing a submission proposal, it is important to contact potential speakers, discuss your ideas, assess interest and note the possibility that it may be selected as a session. It is common practice of professional, business trade and technology scientific, medical, and association events to not guarantee acceptance prior to the proposal's review. It is also industry standard to collect pertinent information (e.g., proposed speaker names, topics, descriptions) to make an informed decision during the review process. Individuals who are used to speaking typically understand that many factors may influence whether a session is ultimately accepted or not.

6. How do I submit a session proposal?

Review the "Session Submission Process Summary" section of these guidelines for more information and the respective appendices. Visit <https://www.nationalrestaurantshow.com/> to access the Call for Proposals web page. These submission guidelines are available on the web page.

7. What if I am having technical difficulties submitting my session proposal?

Contact the Show Programming Team by email at programming@winsightmedia.com. While waiting for a response make sure to use our 'Pick Up Where You Left Off' feature to send yourself a link to the proposal to be edited and submitted at a later date.

8. If my session is accepted, where will the session be hosted?

All sessions will be hosted on the Show's designated online platform. The Show Programming Team will arrange all technical elements of the session.

9. If my session is accepted, what do I need to present?

All online education speakers must have a computer, a stable internet connection, a phone, and web camera.
